LOVE AND THEFT JOIN THE COUNTRY SERIES AT HARD ROCK HOTEL & CASINO ATLANTIC CITY
FRIDAY, JULY 20 AT 8 PM

Atlantic City, NJ (July 27, 2018) – Country Fridays at Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Atlantic City continues this Friday night, July 20 at 8 p.m. with Love And Theft at Sound Waves along with special guest Hudson Moore. Select tickets are still available, but going fast, at hardrockhotelatlanticcity.com.

Originally a trio that also included fellow singer-songwriter Brian Bandas, Love And Theft first galvanized fans in 2009 with their Top 10 hit “Runaway.” That breakthrough success set the stage for their debut album World Wide Open, which also produced the hit single “Dancing In Circles.” After a move from the Disney-affiliated Carolwood label to RCA, Stephen and Eric scored their first #1 single with “Angel Eyes,” which was featured on Love and Theft’s self-titled second album, along with the hits “Runnin’ Out of Air” and “If You Ever Get Lonely.”

The longtime partners agree that their potent musical chemistry is a reflection of their personal rapport. “The thing about us,” Eric Gunderson asserts, “is that we really are best friends, and that’s helped to get us through the tougher times. At the same time, though, we’re different enough personality-wise that the combination works. Stephen Barker Liles’ naturally a more social person than I am, and I’m a little more introverted. He tends to see the best in every person and every situation, and I’m kind of the opposite. My songwriting’s different from his, and when we’re in the studio, his approach is different from mine. The way we play guitar is different. The way we arrange songs is different. But our differences come together to make something that each of us couldn’t do on his own.”

The duo's second-nature chemistry led them both to agree that the occasion of their third album called for the bold musical statement that Whiskey On My Breath would ultimately become.
